

THESPIS LAUNCHES TO THE PUBLIC, BRINGING RESOURCES, COMMUNITY FEEDBACK, AND OPPORTUNITIES TO ACTORS THROUGHOUT LOS ANGELES.

LOS ANGELES – July 1st, 2014 - Today Thespis (<http://thespis.us>) launched to the public. Thespis provides actors with a creative hub that maximizes productivity and encourages accountability, transparency, and artistic entrepreneurship. We've compiled a comprehensive list of businesses for actors to explore, rate, keep track of, and provide feedback for its users. Thespis will revolutionize the way actors and businesses interact, allowing actors a place to find and discover new and existing businesses and giving businesses a platform to increase visibility and marketing.

Thespis is committed to continuing to build and improve upon this free service and tailor it to our users through monitored feedback and site use. Thespis has created a revolutionary rating system giving the acting community a way to give feedback on businesses. Our extensive list of businesses will continue to grow and evolve every day. We are excited to bring new opportunities to actors throughout Los Angeles and look forward to our growth and involvement in the entertainment industry.

Our Story

Thespis began with a simple idea: Let's give all actors a fair chance. We believe information is power, so we created a beautiful information hub for you, our users. Our hope is that you will engage with Thespis to help move your career forward and through your progress allow others to learn and grow.

Thespis – (def) A Greek dramatic poet, he is regarded as the founder of Greek tragedy and the first recorded actor in history.